

INGLEWOOD — Dan Blocker, the shy giant "Hoss" Cartwright on television's "Bonanza" series for 13 years, died of a blood clot in the lung. He was 43. He died at 4 p.m. Saturday in the Daniel Freeman Hospital in Inglewood, Calif., after being admitted at 5:15 a.m. when he complained of dizziness and being in great pain. (Details on page 2.)

Troops in 'no man's land'
BELFAST — Snipers fired on British troops who marched into the "no man's land" separating two warring religious communities Sunday to prevent further shooting across the boundary lines by Roman Catholics and Protestant gunmen, a British army spokesman said. The spokesman said a Protestant youth died after admission to a hospital and another was wounded in the fighting. A 13-year-old girl was found shot to death less than a mile from the battle. There were reports of at least four others hit in the fighting. (Details on page 2.)

Peace plan before Congress
WASHINGTON — Legislation that would ratify President Nixon's four-month Indochina peace timetable and legally bind him to follow it will draw closer this week to a test in Congress. The Senate scheduled a key vote on the measure Tuesday and probably will finish work on it by the end of the week. In the House, meanwhile, a Democratic caucus vote on the proposal is set for Wednesday. Antiwar legislation has overshadowed all other business in both houses, which appear resigned to staying in session the rest of the year.

Taylor urges Nixon support
WASHINGTON — Sen. Maxwell D. Taylor, military adviser to Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson, said Sunday that South Vietnam will fall to the Communists unless there is widespread public support of President Nixon's mining of North Vietnamese harbors. Taylor, now retired, said the chief hope for American success in saving South Vietnam from communism is "a determined front here in the United States, rallying behind the President, eliminating the hope that American public opinion will some way force this President to a disastrous retreat and accepting defeat."

Busing bill vetoed
ALBANY — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller Sunday vetoed a bill that would have banned busing to promote school integration for one year. Moving swiftly following the end of the legislative session, the governor also vetoed a measure that would have required state agencies to file environmental impact statements before going ahead with projects. The two vetoes announced Sunday brought to four the major bills the governor has declined to approve since the legislature adjourned Friday. Rockefeller Saturday vetoed a bill to repeal the state's liberal abortion law and a controversial measure on construction of low income housing in a middle class section of New York City.

State House delays vote on welfare, school bills

HARRISBURG (UPI) — Although the Welfare Department's bank account is dwindling, the House plans to delay a vote on a bill to rescue it from bankruptcy until at least Tuesday. The House will hold its regular session today but key Philadelphia Democrats will be absent. There can be no vote on the $54.1 million welfare appropriation bill without them. The Philadelphia representatives, including House Speaker Herbert Fineman and Appropriations Committee Chairman Martin Mullen, were to remain in the city for the election of Democratic ward leaders. Mullen, as Appropriations Committee chairman, is the key figure in the action on the Welfare bill and another bill to provide extra money to the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh city schools. Last week, the House rejected Welfare Secretary Helene Wohlgemuth's request for the supplemental appropriation. She immediately ordered a halt to all medical assistance payments so that money could be used for the Public Assistance and Aid to Families with Dependent Children recipients. If the bill does not pass, no public assistance checks for the blind, disabled and poor will be issued from May 19 to June 30. Gov. Milton J. Shapp has indicated he will make a personal plea to the legislators to pass the bill. If it clears the House Tuesday, there is a good chance the Senate will stay in Harrisburg for an unusual fourth day to give it quick approval. A bill must be before the Senate for three consecutive days before it can pass. If the House passes it Tuesday and the bill is reported to the Senate floor that same day, the Senate could pass it as early as Thursday. The school appropriation bill would give Philadelphia an extra $16 million and Pittsburgh $3 million in special education funds so their schools could remain open for the rest of the year. The bill may run into opposition because it allocates money only to the big cities and leaves out the suburban and rural districts. Mullen managed to stop a move in the Appropriation Committee to tack on another $14 million for these other districts but there is a chance that could be revived in Tuesday's floor session. Shapp has said that emergencies exist only in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh and that he will veto the bill if any extra money is provided to any other districts. Although the House is not expected to act on two bills dealing with the busing of children to achieve racial balance, demonstrators are planning to come to the capitol to either protest or endorse them.

Electrician blamed in fire which killed 116 in Japan

OSAKA, Japan (UPI)—An electrician was arrested Sunday by police who said he may have been the accidental cause of the worst fire disaster in modern Japan's peacetime history, which killed 116 persons in a penthouse nightclub Saturday. Thirty-eight others were injured in the blaze in a seven-story downtown building. Smoke was still pouring from the building Sunday, 24 hours after the fire started. Police said the 34-year-old suspect, Keiji Kawashima, was working on the third floor of the building, where firemen said the fire started. Investigators believe he may have tossed away a live cigarette butt, setting fire to chemically-treated fiber cloth stored on the floor. The death toll in the Saturday night fire surpassed the 99 persons killed in a blaze that destroyed a Catholic monastery at Yokohama in 1955. Fire officials said it was the worst fire in Japan since World War II. A department store, a supermarket and the "Playtime" cabaret were housed in the building ravaged by the blaze.

Firemen said the fire sent clouds of smoke through the building, trapping about 200 persons in the nightclub. Fire fighters said several of the victims' clothes were not burned, indicating that they were suffocated by smoke. They said fire victims in the cabaret could not use the emergency exit stairs because one exit was blocked by a sofa and another hidden by a curtain. Nineteen of the dead, including several cabaret hostesses, were killed when they tried to leap from the seventh floor.

Mickey Mouse sells out Disneyana draws bids

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Some of the items on the block were genuine Mickey Mouse—but the prices weren't—as the Sotheby Parke-Bernet galleries auction of $14,885 worth of Disneyana, cartoon art and related novelty items Sunday. A spokesman for the auctioneer termed the sale "very successful as we had estimated the total at between $10,000 and $12,000." A Claes Oldenburg ink wash drawing of Mickey Mouse drew the highest price, $2,000, while celluloids from "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" and "Bambi," both signed by the late Walt Disney, went for $575 and $425 respectively. All three were purchased by John Armbruster of New York who bid over an open line. Armbruster also bought a collection of Mickey Mouse magazines, including the first issue of January, 1933, for $170 and 20 other items for a total of $6,335. A fake "Mickey and Minnie Alarm Clock" showing the two mice kissing under red hearts and made in the late 1960s, went for $200. A 1933-vintage Mickey Mouse wristwatch made by Ingersoll, which originally sold for $8, was purchased for $260 by an anonymous London dealer who flew in for the auction. Dave Iwerks, a second-generation Disney Studio employee, bought a Mickey Mouse toy grand piano for $23 "for sentimental reasons."

U.S. supported troops repel attack on Kontum

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese troops backed by artillery and heavy U.S. air support drove back a tank-led Communist attack on Kontum City in the Central Highlands Sunday, at least temporarily blocking a Communist plan to cut South Vietnam in half. South Vietnamese military spokesmen said 10 Soviet-built tanks were destroyed and 173 Communist soldiers killed in the 1-2-hour battle on the northern fringes of Kontum. It was the first direct attack against the city in the current 46-day-old Communist offensive.

To the north, a 1,600-man raiding party of South Vietnamese marines and U.S. advisers recaptured three towns in Communist-held Quang Tri Province, freed 1,000 civilians and withdrew behind their own lines eight hours later. The Quang Tri raid was the first South Vietnamese counter-attack and field officers said it was the first major government victory since the current Communist offensive started in the same area on March 30. South Vietnamese military spokesmen said Communists attacked two positions within two miles north and northwest of Kontum City, a provincial capital about 250 miles north of Saigon. UPI reporter Matt Franjola said American fighter-bombers, missile-equipped U.S. helicopters and South Vietnamese artillery slowed the Communist attack while government ground troops fought to turn back Communist troops. The helicopters destroyed two of the 15 tanks and South Vietnamese soldiers using M72 antitank weapons stopped eight of the big machines. In an apparently coordinated attack against Pleiku, 30 miles south of Kontum, Communists blew up two major bridges and attacked a nearby South Vietnamese artillery base. The two cities are prime targets for the Communists who believe that if they can capture the two provincial capitals they can send troops eastward to link up with Communist troops along the central coast and cut the country in half. Communists already control much of the area along the coast. North Vietnamese troops overran most of the outer defenses around Kontum in a series of attacks which started one month ago but the tank-led assault was the first attack directly against the city. South Vietnamese spokesmen said at least five government soldiers were killed and 14 wounded in the attack.

Pentagon denies mines would soon be deactivated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon spent Mother's Day with his family at rain-swept Camp David, Md., Sunday taking time out to study Vietnam war messages in advance of his planned departure next Saturday for a summit conference in Moscow. The Defense Department denied a published report that mines used to blockade North Vietnamese ports were designed to deactivate automatically prior to his visit to the Soviet union starting May 22. The New York Times reported in its Sunday editions that the mines are of the magnetic type capable of turning themselves on or off at irregular intervals or of disarming themselves permanently. "As we've said," Defense Department spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim told UPI, "we are not going to discuss the specifics of mine technology." But he added: "The New York Times story is wrong." Other Pentagon sources said the mines were not limited to the magnetic type and that all kinds used could be deactivated very quickly by remote control. "That is how the President could say that he would remove the blockade any time," North Vietnam agreed to his proposals," said one official. The Times quoted "responsible informants" as giving details on the type of mines placed in harbors at Haiphong and six other North Vietnamese ports. "They (the informants) declined on grounds of military security to discuss the cutoff schedule," the Times said, "but they strongly hinted that if President Nixon so decided he could order an end to the bombing and mining of North Vietnamese ports when he visited Moscow." In Paris, the newspaper Figaro reported in a dispatch by its Moscow correspondent that Nixon has assured the Soviet Union he will halt all air and naval bombardment of North Vietnam during his visit. The newspaper gave no source for the report. Automatic deactivation has been built into all U.S. mines in the Pentagon's stockpile, so that if used they will not remain a threat to shipping months or years later, as did those used in World War II. If the need for mining continues beyond any cutoff, new ones could be laid and armed very quickly. Meantime in Washington, the President's decision to mine the harbors and intensify the bombing of North Vietnam was defended by Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott and retired Gen. Maxwell Taylor, former ambassador to Saigon and former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Head Start given complete change

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration quietly has reorganized the dwindling Head Start program for needy pre-school children and shifted project director Richard E. Orton to an assignment in Texas, UPI learned Sunday. The changes, effective today, are not expected to have any immediate effect on more than 1,600 local Head Start programs that offer children of the poor medical, nutritional, educational and other pre-school services. But the long-range effect will be to mesh Head Start with other child service programs. The number of Head Start children has been declining since 1966, when 733,000 were enrolled, to an estimated 383,000 this year, because of a shift of emphasis from summer programs to more expensive full-year projects. Announcement of the reorganization was made by Dr. Edward F. Zigler, director of the U. S. Office of Child Development, in a memorandum last week to members of his staff. Zigler said that despite moving the Head Start office down one notch in the bureaucratic pecking order, the administration will not cut Head Start's spending nor trim its staff. His agency is part of the Health, Education and Welfare Department. "Organizational charts don't tell the whole story," he said in an interview. "I did not come to Washington to see Head Start decimated." Zigler said the changes were made in recognition of the growing interest in day care and his belief that Head Start should serve as a model for other federally financed child-care programs offering services in the home as well as in outside centers. "The whole child development enterprise in this country can't be Project Head Start," said Zigler, a child psychologist who headed the Yale University child development program before joining the administration two years ago. "Rather than say that Head Start and day care should go on all by themselves, they should enrich each other," he said. "Clearly day care, without any new legislation, is burgeoning in this country. Obviously the Office of Child Development has got to be in the vanguard of this total effort."

Stars of 'All in the Family' capture top Emmy awards

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—America's favorite bigot, Archie Bunker, in the person of Carroll O'Connor, won the Emmy Sunday night for the best actor in a comedy series as his show, "All in the Family," was off to a fast start with six awards. Jean Stapleton, who plays Bunker's adored wife in the top-rated series, won the award for best actress in a comedy show, and Sally Struthers—who plays their daughter in the CBS situation comedy—won honors as best supporting actress. Miss Struthers tied for her Emmy with Valerie Harper, supporting actress in the "Mary Tyler Moore Show." Veteran motion picture actor Peter Falk won the Emmy for best performance by an actor in a dramatic series for his performance in the title role of "Colombo." Glenda Jackson, who won an Oscar last year for "Women in Love," was voted the best actress in a dramatic series for her performance in "Elizabeth R." Voted the outstanding comedy series for the second year in a row was the series which pokes fun at bigotry, "All in the Family." Winners of the award for best supporting performances in a drama were Jack Warden ("Brian's Song") and Jenny Agutter ("The Snow Goose"). Best supporting actor in a comedy series went to the hardboiled boss in the "Mary Tyler Moore" series, Edward Asner. Asner also won the award last year. Joe DiMaggio, baseball's immortal, presented the award for the outstanding achievement in sports programming to "Wide World of Sports." Best comedy director, John Rich (All in the Family). Outstanding comedy writer, Burl Styler (All in the Family). Outstanding drama director, Alexander Singer (The Bold Ones).

'Bonanza's' Dan Blocker dies of blood clot in lung

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—An autopsy disclosed Sunday that Dan Blocker, the shy giant "Hoss" Cartwright of the TV "Bonanza" series for 13 years, died of a blood clot in the lung at age 43.

The six foot, four inch, 260-pound actor had his gall bladder removed May 1 and had been released from the hospital Friday.

Blocker was taken to Daniel Freeman Hospital in Inglewood at 5:15 a.m. Saturday complaining of feeling dizzy and being in great pain. He died at 4 p.m. The autopsy confirmed that he suffered a pulmonary embolism.

An amiable man, as easy going off the screen as on, Blocker's characterization of "Hoss" as a none too bright cowhand, scared of women but a terror when aroused, was a big factor in making "Bonanza" one of television's all time hits.

NBC President Julian Goodman said he was "deeply saddened by the passing of Dan Blocker...he brought to his personal life the same high moral character of the role he played. We all knew him as a generous, warm, intellectual man dedicated to his family and children."

Goodman said 10 seconds would be devoted to an announcement of Blocker's death at the conclusion of Sunday night's episode, which featured Blocker in a rerun of "Iron Butterfly."

Bonanza producer Richard Collins said he had "not even thought about" how Blocker's death would affect the series which was scheduled to resume shooting late this month.

"It's a personal matter as well as a business matter," he said. "We were very good friends."

Michael Landon, who played younger brother "Little Joe," heard the news while visiting relatives in Louisville, Ky. He said it was "like losing a real brother."

Lorne Green, who played Ben Cartwright on the series, was reached in Baltimore where he said the death was "such a great personal shock I cannot put it into mere words."

"Our personal relationship was like brothers, or father and son," he said.

Funeral services were pending but a family friend said Blocker probably would be returned to his home town in Bowie County, Texas, where he would be buried next to his father.

Salary hikes suggested

HARRISBURG (UPI)—The new state Compensation Commission is reported to want to increase the salary and expenses of each state legislator from $15,600 to as much as $22,500 a year.

The report was contained in an article in Sunday's Harrisburg Patriot-News. The story said the commission wants to give each legislator a salary of $17,000 or $17,500 and an expense account of $4,000 or $5,000.

The legislators currently take home a $7,200 salary and $8,400 in nonaccountable expenses.

The Compensation Commission was created last year by the legislature and appointed by the governor. It currently is considering its first round of salary increases for legislators, judges and top officials in the executive branch.

Cocaine seized in car by police

SAYREVILLE N.J. (UPI)—Five million dollars' worth of pure cocaine was discovered Sunday in the trunk of a car stopped by a state trooper on the Garden State Parkway because it was weaving, State Police said.

The driver, charged with possession of narcotics and driving while under the influence of drugs, was taken to Sayreville police headquarters and held for arraignment today. He was identified as Robert S. Brashear, 44, of Passaic.

A State Police spokesman said that Brashear opened the Troops in no man's land to prevent more shootings

BELFAST (UPI)—British troops marched into the "no man's land" separating two warring religious communities Sunday to prevent further firing across the boundary lines by Roman Catholic and Protestant gunmen, the army said.

An army spokesman said one Protestant youth died after admission to a hospital. Another lay wounded. There were reports of at least four others hit in the hours-long gunbattle between gunmen of the opposing sides and witnesses said they saw at least two Protestant gunmen lying dead in an open field.

"We have just begun an operation to place a force between Ballymurphy and the Springmartin estates," the army said, referring to the respective Catholic and Protestant districts. "The object of this force is to prevent further firing across the interface into the Springmartin estate."

A number of women and children were pinned down by the firing, which started at noon (6 a.m. EDT) and continued into the evening.

The gunbattle was the first daylight fight between the opposing groups since the British army was sent in to keep the peace three years ago. The battle went on for hours before troops were sent in.

At least four civilians and one soldier died Saturday night and early Sunday in fighting triggered by the barroom explosion. At least 61 persons were injured in the blast.

In the three years of religious violence in Northern Ireland at least 325 persons have been killed.

The shooting came after both Protestants and Roman Catholics evacuated women and children from the area and rival crowds later stoned and jeered each other. Police closed an eight mile stretch of the main highway to Dublin to prevent the trouble from spreading.

An army spokesman said soldiers were in the area and returning fire when fired upon, but there were no troops then in the immediate vicinity of the main battle where Roman Catholics took up positions in houses, behind walls, in doorways and on open ground.

CARPET TALK

By The Magic Carpet

Genie

Question: We recently obtained two estimates on carpeting for our two bedrooms. One store estimated the rooms to take 57 square yards, the other store 48 sq. yds. We called both stores about the difference but they both insisted their measurements were correct. We know the store with the higher estimate to be reputable, but how, then, can the other store be so much less in yardage?

Answer: Usually the first reaction is that the store with the higher has overestimated which is entirely possible. In this case however since you feel the store with the higher estimate is honest, I would tend to suspect the other store of tricky estimating. This can be done by lowering the yardage and inflating the price per sq. yd. to cover or even exceed the difference. It also can be done in reverse. Too many times carpet customers are too concerned with "how many square yards," or "how much per sq. yd?" when all that really matters is the quality of the carpet, cushion, labor etc., and the total completed cost.

Flood ravaged towns clean up

NEW BRAUNFELS, Tex. (UPI)—Two inches of rain pelted the towns and farms along the Guadalupe River Saturday night and Sunday and the river, which bulged out of its banks with devastating fury last week, rolled through Texas at nine feet above flood stage.

But authorities in towns south of New Braunfels and Seguin, the two towns most severely damaged by the floods, said the river did not pose the threat it did last week.

At least 15 persons drowned Friday when the normally placid Guadalupe heaved a wall of water across the small German community of 20,000 people.

Clean up crews scraped away mud piles from homes and buried cars and said perhaps more bodies would be found as the operations continued.

Heavy rains drove most of the rivers in South Central Texas above their flood stages. Telephone lines into Seguin and New Braunfels remained down most of the weekend and, for the most part, the two towns were without electricity.

The Baptist mission in Dallas sent a rescue van, capable of preparing and serving 3,000 meals to Seguin.

Mary Lancaster, who lives on the Texas Coast came to New Braunfels every weekend with her two sons to work on the construction of their $20,000 home. It was washed two block away.

Bus-truck crash investigated

BEAN STATION, Tenn. (UPI)—Teams of state and federal investigators Sunday sought the cause of a bus-truck wreck that killed 14 people in this remote mountain community.

Highway Patrol Capt. Guy Nicholson, after 30 hours of sifting through the twisted debris of the Greyhound bus and the charred hulk of a tractor-trailer rig, said there were several puzzling bits of evidence.

He said there were no skid marks at the scene of Saturday's crash, making it difficult to determine the exact point of impact or the approximate speed of either the bus or the truck.

The wreck also happened in what was described as one of the safer areas along the 95 miles of twisting highway HW between Knoxville and King'sport.

Okinawa returns to Japan today

NAHA, Okinawa (UPI)—Japan hoists the Rising Sun flag over this tiny Western Pacific island today, ending 27 years of American rule that began soon after one of the bloodiest battles in history.

But the mood of the people was one of solemn resignation and members of parliament from Japan's left-wing parties said they would boycott the ceremonies.

Many of the island's 900,000 Okinawans were upset over the continued presence of the 45,000 U.S. troops on a vast network of bases considered America's nerve center in the Far East and key backup for the escalating Vietnam war.

Islanders also were angry over unfavorable terms of the dollar-yen conversion. Leaders lost their plea for a flat 360-to-1 conversion rate. Any money earned or saved after Oct. 8, 1971, will be changed to yen at 305 per dollar as a result of Japan's 18.88 per cent upward revaluation of its currency last December.

Reversion of the strategic island, 1,000 miles southwest of Tokyo, took place a midnight Sunday (11 a.m. EDT) and climaxed the seven-year rule of Japan's Prime Minister Eisaku Sato, who pledged to oversee the return of the island from its American conquerors, who captured Okinawa at the close of World War II at a cost of 134,000 Japanese and American lives.

Formal reversion ceremonies will be held here and in Tokyo, where Sato was to be joined by Emperor Hirohito and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, who flew to Japan last week to represent the United States.

Two official ceremonies mark reversion day in Naha today, the first sponsored by the Japanese government and the second later in the day by the new Okinawa province government.

Platform committee begins work

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Democratic Platform Committee starts work today with most of its members not chosen and with a deadline that would give convention delegates the somewhat novel opportunity to thoroughly study the party platform before adopting it.

The new platform system reflects the same changes adopted by the Democrats in an attempt to make selection of delegates more open, and raises the same questions of what relative amateurs might do with a job traditionally handled in large part by party regulars.

Even the platform committee chairman, Harvard University Prof. Richard E. Neustadt, can't be sure of his status. Once the committee members are chosen, they could oust Neustadt and install a chairman of their own choice.

Bangor school embarks into video tape world

By MAUREEN RUFE
Pocono Record Reporter

BANGOR — "If you think you're fat in real life, you should see yourself on television," said a surprised Bangor Junior High School gymnast after seeing herself on one of the school's closed circuit television programs.

This was one of the first reactions to Bangor's adventure into the world of video tape.

Two television cameras equipped with zoom lenses, two monitors, a switching equipment console and a complete video tape recorder have been purchased by the Bangor school system at a cost of $15,700.

The equipment is being used this year to record special programs such as gymnastic exhibitions, the senior play, and junior high honor society programs, under the close supervision of science teacher Henry Williams.

Four students take turns operating two mobile cameras in recording programs on the two-month-old equipment.

The equipment basically will be used for an elective television course next year, which will be taught by Williams, and will become a valuable teaching aid for teachers and students alike.

The closed-circuit television programs, which are capable of being piped into 12 separate sets throughout the school, will allow teachers to evaluate their own performance in the classroom and will present innovative techniques to other faculty members.

Students will be able to examine individual performances in athletic contests and plays, and detailed experiments and class preparations can be presented via the video tape.

It has also been proposed that when teachers know in advance when they are going to be absent, they could tape a presentation which could be played for the class by the substitute teacher.

When asked if the closed circuit TV would be used to observe students who would need discipline, Williams said that hadn't been suggested, but it would be a great idea.

The twelve sets throughout the school are capable of receiving Channels 3, 6, 10 and 39, and closed circuit programs can be fed on Channel 8. All the sets are serviced by one master antenna on the school's roof.

The equipment itself, a combination of Panasonic and Diamond Power systems, is capable of producing split screen effects, fade-ins and outs, and overlapping shots from both cameras.

Although a "director" would be able to select shots from the two cameras to present one live program, Williams said nothing has been done along that line.

To date, when anything is video taped, the two cameras each make one continuous recording of the program.

Williams also emphasized the television cameras were especially easy for junior high school students to operate; the zoom control and the focus control were one in the same.

He noted that the director of the film, with the aid of the video console could speed up the action, or reproduce it in slow motion.

The video tape reels, which cost about $35 each, are similar to sound recording tape. New events can be recorded over previously used tape and the original event will be completely erased.

Williams said the new equipment is also capable of taping commercial programs that could be played back at a later date.

In the event that present facilities at the junior high school could not accommodate a large audience, a program could simultaneously be shown in several locations in the school on closed circuit television sets.

Other programs suggested by Williams would include taping sessions of public meetings, civic events, and service activities in the community.

It has been suggested that Williams consider taping remote athletic events such as football games, but he expressed concern about this suggestion.

According to the television instructor, inclement weather, transportation problems, poor lighting and the lack of a central power supply would all be monumental obstacles to overcome.

Williams said the real purpose of the equipment was to have students learn to use it. At the present time, four students, Ronald Hughes, Kevin LaBarre, Jeff Patti and David Pfeiffer, are becoming familiar with the equipment on an extra-curricular basis.

During taping sessions, two boys operate the cameras, which are mounted on dollies, and the other two boys are responsible for manipulating the heavy television cables during the filming.

The students, who rotate these responsibilities, said they were ecstatic about the new equipment and two of the ninth graders expressed a desire to be television cameramen later in life.

The one thing all the boys emphasized was that after using video taping equipment, they were much more appreciative of what goes on behind the scenes when they watch a television program.

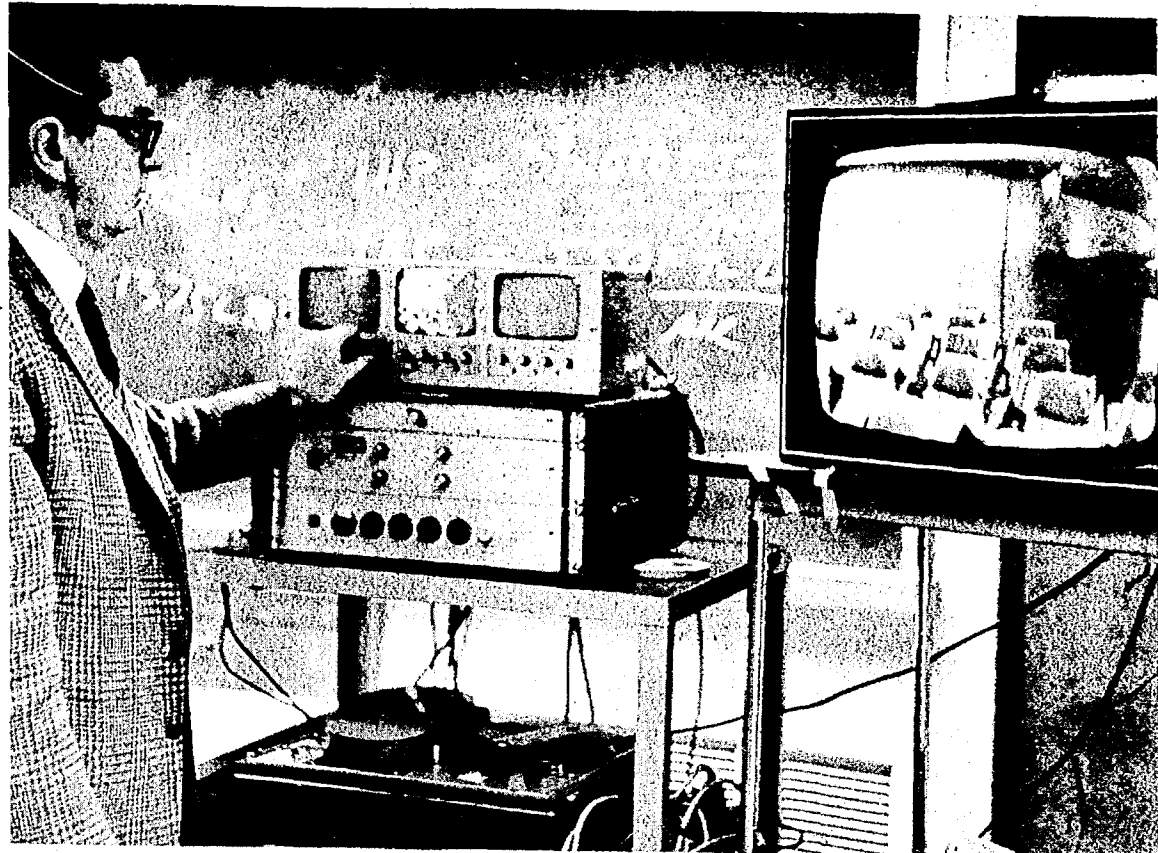

When asked if there were plans to explore the creative aspects of film editing, etc., Williams said this would take special talents of someone in the field.

At the present time, the school is only concentrating on the technical and practical aspects of the closed circuit system.

In regards to the teachers' reaction to all the new equipment, Williams said the video apparatus had not been around long enough to tell.

He added, however, that the television equipment would prove to be a valuable teaching aid for everybody and said the students at Bangor Junior High School deserved the equipment.

GILBERT — I am a "foreigner." The chances are that even if I live in the West End for the next 50 years, I will still be a "foreigner" without any real hope of becoming a "naturalized" West End.

To many of the old-time Pennsylvania Dutch West End residents, any taxpayer who is not born in the West End is a "foreigner." It doesn't matter what you do for the community or how long you live in the West End of Monroe County — the stigma of being a "foreigner" simply means that the resident was born somewhere else.

It is interesting to note that "foreigners" do not have to come from foreign countries or even from other states. Many West Enders consider emigrants from Stroudsburg as "foreigners."

For many years, when the Pennsylvania Dutch ethic was the ruling force in this rural part of the county, "foreigners" found it difficult to get elected to political office, to hold major offices in social clubs, or to hobnob socially with the natives.

This is not to say that the foreigners are mistreated or shunned by the natives. On the contrary, the old-time West Enders, are friendly, cordial and warm. However, underneath it all, one is always aware of the fact that he is a "foreigner."

Today, with the sudden influx of low-cost developments and urban emigrants, it seems as if the "foreigners" are increasing. Although there are no real records to substantiate the number, many local "experts" predict that foreigners actually make up 50 per cent of the rural West End population.

Of course, the old-time natives dispute the figure vehemently; it is difficult to concede that "foreigners" are actually taking over.

Whether the 50 per cent figure is accurate or not, however, advertisers, businessmen, residents and visitors, recognize that the Pennsylvania Dutch born and bred resident is becoming the exception rather than the rule.

If this trend continues and the "foreigners" continue to increase, maybe people like me can become full-fledged residents, after all.

Dogs on loose may mean arrest

MOUNTAINHOME — Barrett Township Police Chief Robert LaBar Thursday warned all owners of dogs in the township that they are subject to a summary conviction and a possible fine of $100 to $300 if convicted of allowing their dogs to run loose.

LaBar said he has received numerous complaints during the past weeks concerning dogs which have been running loose in the township. He said owners of those dogs would be arrested and prosecuted if they failed to obey the state statute.

Welfare halt over-reaction

Just as it is the violence-prone, anarchistic anti-war protesters who get all the attention when demonstrations arise, so it is the welfare cheat, the undeserving aid recipient who are in the forefront of a legislator's consciousness when he contemplates yet another welfare funding bill.

That is an unfortunate consideration, because the vast majority of welfare recipients are neither cheats nor undeserving. The vast majority consists of the elderly, the lame, the blind, the ill and any number of children who go hungry when their mothers don't get their Aid to Families with Dependent Children check.

It is this majority, and those who depend on welfare aid to pay for their necessary medical treatment, who are suffering by the Assembly's rash decision to refuse approval of an extra $54 million for the Public Welfare Department.

Gov. Milton Shapp and Welfare Secretary Mrs. Helene Wohlgemuth labeled the Assembly's action "election year politics." That may be partly true, but we feel there is a deeper reason, a more "gut" reaction responsible.

Welfare may be a necessary and inevitable facet of our affluent — for some — and pluralistic society, but it is nonetheless a distasteful one. For one reason, the existence of huge welfare budgets reminds us that there are many, many people in our sated midst who live in relative poverty. That is an uncomfortable reminder. We still have a conscience, and it doesn't like such thoughts.

There is also the exasperation of ever-increasing public expenditures for all the services we demand, but strangely dislike paying for intensely. We get to a point where we feel every cent we earn is going to pay for some governmental scheme or other.

It isn't true, of course, and it is we, the public, who ask for the services that cost us so dearly. But it still angers us, and what angers us, in most cases, also angers our legislators, those pulse-feeling, nervous supplicants of the public temper.

And so they react. But in this case we believe they over-reacted, and it is those who can least afford such indulgence in appeasing the public temper who suffer.

Happy Mother's Day!

Yesterday was Mother's Day and, although a bit belated, we wish to extend a salute to all mothers because, believe us, they deserve it.

It takes quite a bit to be a mother — that is, one worthy of the title. For that is what it is, a title, and there should be a crown to go along with it (mothers sometimes complain there is — of thorns!).

We view with suspicion those fem-libbers who belittle the state of motherhood and contend there is no challenge, just drudgery, in the process of bearing and rearing children. We suspect either they have never given it a try, or have failed miserably and don't even want to think about it.

No challenge? Hogwash! Among other things, a mother has to be a diplomat, a corrections officer, a seamstress, a cook of high order (children are notoriously disdainful of so-so food), a nurse, a referee, a storyteller, a psychiatrist, a teacher, a laundress, a maid... the list is endless and encompasses virtually every field of endeavor in existence.

Perhaps the most important of all these is her role as consoler of injured psyches, the healer of bruised spirits and deflated egos. She is a comfort to seek out when the world turns on us, when the ogres assault us, when our playmates call us names and laugh at our tenderly nursed awkwardness — or maybe an oversized nose.

There is some force to the argument that every day ought to be Mother's Day, but the argument fails, just as it does when someone suggests every day ought to be Christmas. It just ain't so. Every day is child's day, and that's the way it should be. That's what mothers are there for — to nurture the young child until he or she is ready to take his or her place in the world and become a father (don't fret, Dad; your day is coming next month) or mother.

That's a terrifying job, when to stop to think about it. But most mothers don't. They just do the job, and on the whole do it very, very well. Our hats are off to you, mother. You deserve every such honor you can get. You've deserved it.

Nixon and politics

WILL NIXON STEP DOWN AS DID LBJ? The answer is a qualified no. He will not quit whatever happens in Vietnam.

But the pressure to force him to do so will mount. If his military measures fail to stop the Hanoi drive, the drumbeat of his critics will be that the President has proved himself so out of touch with public opinion that he can no longer lead the nation and should step aside as Johnson did at about this time in 1968.

Twelve hours after Nixon's disclosure that the United States was mining the North Vietnamese harbors, the chairman of the Democratic National Committee, Lawrence O'Brien, launched the theme that the President himself would have to "give very serious consideration" to asking his party to find another nominee.

O'Brien knew what he was doing.

THREE REASONS WHY NIXON WON'T QUIT. He has already considered the possibility that he will be a one-term President. He knows the political risks he is taking, but he has no intention whatsoever of withdrawing without a contest. These are his reasons:

1—He believes that the military measures he is taking will check the North Vietnamese offensive.

2—He believes that majority American opinion supports the strong line he is taking to halt the invasion and will reward him if it does.

3—He believes he should be held accountable to the American people for his Vietnam policies—whether they succeed or fail—and he holds that the only way he can be held accountable is to run for re-election.

NIXON'S EARLY PLEDGE ON VIETNAM. He made it soon after he took office. He pledged to end the Vietnamese war and to end it in a way which would "increase the prospects of winning a lasting peace." Then he added:

"I am determined to keep that pledge. If I fail to do so I expect the American people to hold me accountable for that failure."

Thus he intends to let the voters decide whether he should quit.

WHAT IF SAIGON FALLS? Will it mean Nixon's certain defeat in November? Most political observers doubt that the President could surmount such a disaster. But there are two unexpected factors. The polls show that public support for Nixon's aggressive resistance to the invasion is steadily mounting. Hanoi's mass aggression is changing U.S. opinion and more people are backing Nixon's strong actions. Gallup finds that 65 per cent of the American people polled believe he is doing all he can to end the war.

WHAT ABOUT THE REPUBLICAN VICE-PRESIDENCY? Nixon expects Agnew to be his running mate. Agnew expects he will be Nixon's running mate. That makes it unanimous.

What persuaded Eisenhower to keep Nixon in 1956 is adding to Nixon's intention to keep Agnew in 1972: namely, Agnew's big victory in New Hampshire.

In an almost wholly spontaneous write-in for Vice President, Agnew got a surprising 48,000 votes. This was more than double the vote Vice President Nixon received in 1956 and more than either of the two leading Democratic hopefuls got in the same primary this year. Agnew is very relaxed.

SOME HOLES IN SOUTH AFRICA'S APARTHEID. Serious leaks are appearing in the government's policy of rigid racial separatism.

The reason: South Africa is running out of white men—not enough to fill jobs previously classified as "for whites only." Some 2,300 nonwhites are being employed by the railroads and others by the postal service.

South African liberals hail this as an incipient revolution. Hard-line nationalists shudder.

'Kicking the Habit'

Is it true that doctors by the thousands have given up cigarettes?

How are they able to do it when they are under such stress, probably more than most people?

I have been able to stop for a few weeks, but then start again when there is any special pressure.

Mr. H.A.U., Wash.

Dear Mr. U.:

I am sure that doctors have given up cigarette smoking in large numbers. I do not know the comparative statistics, but it is conceivable that doctors, more than any other group, are aware of the hazards of smoking.

Doctors undoubtedly experience the same difficulties as do their patients when they decide to stop smoking.

Remember we have all the human frailties, compounded by the pressures and strain of the problems we see in our patients.

That you are able to stop smoking for any length of time means that you are well on the way to "kicking the habit." Yet you fall right back into the tobacco trap when there are "special pressures" at work or at home. But actually, have you ever known a day when there is absolutely no pressure, no problem, no tension, and no anxiety? I doubt it.

If you want to start smoking again, some kind of excuse can always be found. But if you really want to stop smoking, think about the potential dangers of tobacco before you light your next cigarette.

I am constantly amazed how quickly and easily a patient admitted to the hospital with a stroke or a coronary heart attack can give up tobacco.

Does one have to totter on the brink of destruction before giving up this known menace to mankind?

Ichthyosis is a congenital skin condition, often referred to as fish-skin disease.

Although not dangerous, it is most unpleasant because of the dryness, the scalliness and the harshness of the skin.

Many treatments have been tried, with only moderate and temporary success.

Now, a vitamin-A acid, known as retinoic acid, or tretinoin, has been used with astonishing success.

Dr. William F. Schorr, of the Marshfield Clinic in Marshfield, Wisconsin, has reported a series of cases that make this new vitamin-A derivative a most welcome discovery.

The Pennsylvania Story

Welfare whining

HARRISBURG — Bureaucratic arrogance rarely has been more succinctly exemplified than in the present instance in which the administration is bitterly whining over the refusal — up to this point — of the legislative branch to go along with a $54 million deficiency appropriation for the Department of Public Welfare.

When the House of Representatives in a somewhat admittedly brave — and decidedly unusual move — voted down rather smackingly by a count of 112-78 a bill providing the $54 million deficiency appropriation, His Excellency and his Secretary of Public Welfare immediately voiced pious cries of indignation and alarmed consternation.

"Unconscionable" declared the Governor in referring to the action by the House in turning down the deficiency request.

View of fact

This is interesting — in view of the fact that last year the Legislature, in approving the administration's record-breaking spending blueprint for fiscal 1971-72, knocked off nearly $70 million from the Department of Public Welfare's budget request.

That was last year — yet obviously the department in its bureaucratic "wisdom" felt it "outranked" the Legislature, for it continued its spending blithely as though the Legislature had not cut back its spending by some $70 million.

We say "obviously" — for the simple reason that now the department is clamoring for additional taxpayer monies on the grounds that by the end of this week they'll run out of funds for the state's needy on public assistance.

The question that arises, and one which apparently rankles many a lawmaker, is: why didn't the department program last year spread this overall cutback — at that time, when the Legislature dictated cutting back spending by $70 million?

The key to the whole ball of wax perhaps rests (inadvertently) in this comment by Secretary of Welfare Helen Wohlgemuth when the House last week defeated the $54 million supplemental spending bill:

"Eventually, it's a matter of the Legislature coming up with the money or we're going to have to stop the payments."

Is this really the "matter"?

Unquestionably, had the department adhered to the legislative dictate of last year and spread its outback, it wouldn't be in the position it is now — faced with the prospect of running out of funds by the end of the week.

Almost routinely

Too often — in fact almost routinely — the executive branch of Pennsylvania's bureaucratic government ignores the inescapable constitutional fact that it is the legislative branch that dictates what the executive branch may or may not do (or spend) — and not the other way around, as in the present case.

Representative Martin P. Mullen, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, most certainly said a mouthful on the floor of the House last week when he declared:

"The people in the House (of Representatives) are pretty well fed up with the Welfare Department."

Quoth Governor Shapp:

"This is a heavy price to pay for election-year politics."

The fact is that had the administration abided by the legislative dictate of last year, there wouldn't be an "election-year price" now.

As for "election year politics," it would seem that lawmakers would vote for, rather than against, such a "welfare" program!

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — President Nixon is again releasing selective information from his secret advisers in an attempt to manage the Vietnam news.

He has taken excerpts out of context which give a misleading impression of Vietnam developments.

The White House has spread the word, for example, that the mining of Haiphong harbor will affect the fighting in Vietnam within two or three weeks. Sources with access to the secret estimates flatly dispute this. Although the predictions vary, most estimates warn that Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, the fabulous North Vietnamese commander, has enough men and material at the fighting fronts to last three or four months.

The secret reports express grudging admiration for Giap's genius at moving supplies under hazardous, almost impossible conditions. The American high command still can't figure out how he moved Soviet tanks, heavy artillery and antiaircraft missiles into South Vietnam without American planes spotting and destroying them.

In any case, the intelligence reports claim only about one-third of the Soviet equipment reaches North Vietnam by ship. Our most massive bombing has also failed to halt the flow of enemy armaments over the land supply routes. The secret consensus, therefore, is that the President's drastic actions in the North will have only a minimal effect on the fighting in the South.

Earlier, the President quoted Gen. Creighton Abrams the American commander in Saigon, as saying the South Vietnamese army was fighting courageously and well. Sources with access to Abrams' secret reports tell us this message was taken out of context. Actually, Abrams had raised grave questions about the South Vietnamese military leadership, battle tactics and dependence on air support.

The Abrams message, which the President quoted, intended to convey in its full context only that the South Vietnamese were fighting better than the General had expected.

The President's foreign policy czar, Henry Kissinger, has also told the press that Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev led him to believe in Moscow that a Vietnamese settlement would come from renewed negotiations.

Sources with access to the full text of the Kissinger-Brezhnev talks agree that the Soviet leader encouraged the United States to renew negotiations. But Brezhnev was emphatic in declaring that the Soviet Union would not intervene to arrange a settlement and would not decrease its arm shipments to North Vietnam. Brezhnev suggested only that the Vietnamese war need not jeopardize Russian-American relations.

Clearly, the President, in taking the American people into his confidence about the Vietnamese war, is playing the old game of pick-and-choose.

The Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), which is supposed to guard the public against corporate conniving, has joined the connivers in a multimillion-dollar case.

The commission has shown a strange concern for the welfare of American Electric Power, the nation's largest electric holding company, which is dead determined to take over an Ohio electric company worth $500 million.

To help grease the political skids, American Electric has mobilized senators, congressmen, mayors and other influential figures. Indeed, the SEC staff has accused American Electric's lawyer, lobbyist, Arvin Alexander, of soliciting letters "designed to improperly influence" the SEC proceedings.

But the commissioners seem more impressed with a corporate giant and its political allies than with their own staff. For example, the commissioners, headed by Chairman William Casey, have sided with American Electric in its efforts to bypass the staff hearing examiner, Irving Schiller.

Although Schiller has worked four years on the case, the commissioners notified him in a blunt, one-page memo that they want to take the case away from him and decide it themselves.

An SEC staff team, headed by gruff, grizzled Sol Freedman, has also fought in behalf of the consumers against the American Electric takeover. The staff accused the company of "unwholesome and retaliatory actions... aimed at a witness."

But the commissioners killed subpoenas designed to get the truth of these charges.

From our own sources and 30,000 pages of official evidence, we have discovered a variety of pressure tactics used by American Electric. Consider these examples.

— We found a 1969 letter from Mayor M.E. Sensenbrenner of Columbus, Ohio, suggesting that then-Senator Stephen Young, D-O., approach "the staff or members of the SEC" to help swing the deal for American Electric.

— Sen. Robert Taft, R-O., asked acting Attorney General Richard Kleindienst to intervene in behalf of American Electric. This awkward request was made while Kleindienst was under Senate fire for intervening in the ITT case. The embattled Kleindienst refused to help the corporate utility.

— American Electric fired Prof. James Nelson, who had been retained by the company as a lecturer, after he testified against the takeover. Ironically Nelson was going to teach the corporate executives about public utilities regulations.

Meanwhile, American Electric has come up with a dubious settlement offer. Even if it is accepted, the settlement could require further lengthy hearings at the SEC.

Footnote: It is worth mentioning that Don Cook, American Electric's president and chairman, once served as chairman of the SEC which now seems so eager to help his company.

Cook was out of the country and couldn't be reached. His executive vice president, Herbert Cohn, denied that there had been any improper pressures in the SEC proceedings. He declared: "If you talk with anyone in the area (served by the Ohio company) — press, chamber of commerce, political officials — you'll find that they are very interested in bringing American Electric Power in. They think it would be in the best interests of the area."

No damp spirits

Despite rainy weather, Gov. George Wallace did not encounter any dampened spirits during his campaign tour of Michigan over the weekend.

Candidates seek Maryland votes

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace return to Maryland today for election eve campaigning in a presidential primary which each candidate has predicted he will win.

Both Humphrey and Wallace spent the weekend campaigning in Michigan, which also holds its primary on Tuesday, but both scheduled their last full day of campaigning in Maryland today. Wallace also planned election day stops at polling places and said he would remain here Tuesday night to issue a victory statement.

Neither Democratic candidate would predict a margin of victory.

"I haven't made any soundings but it will be sizeable," Wallace said.

"We will do well," Humphrey said.

The Minnesota senator and the Alabama governor topped a list of 11 Democratic candidates on Maryland's presidential primary ballot. Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota and

Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York were given a chance to woo some of the state's 53 delegates.

Gov. Marvin Mandel, who leans toward Humphrey but did not make a formal endorsement, conceded that Wallace would win the primary but said Humphrey's late campaigning would help him.

Humphrey has failed to get 100 per cent support from organized labor at rallies but was well received by black voters while Wallace has put together a coalition of voters aligned with his antibusing stand and others moved by his populist attacks on inequitable tax systems.

McGovern spent Saturday campaigning in Maryland. The South Dakota Democrat spoke in the Washington suburbs of Bethesda and Seat Pleasant and at rallies in Baltimore and Columbia.

Reiterating his repudiation of the Thieu regime in South Vietnam, McGovern said, "We ought to resolve never again to shed young blood of this country trying to back up a corrupt dictatorship."

PSEA president

HARRISBURG (UPI) — A Westmoreland County man who has vowed to remove politics from education is the new president-elect of the Pennsylvania State Education Association (PSEA).

Robert C. Baldis, 28, of Manor, a guidance counselor in the Gateway School District in Allegheny County, was elected to the post Saturday at the closing session of the PSEA's two-day spring convention.

Party chairmanship at stake

Shapp foe to decide next move

HARRISBURG (UPI) — John N. Scales promises to announce this week whether he will fight to deny Gov. Milton J. Shapp sole control of the Democratic party in Pennsylvania.

Scales, a bitter foe of the governor, insists he has not decided whether he will seek re-election as chairman of the Democratic State Committee.

There were indications that Scales, the district attorney in Westmoreland County, would abandon in the chairmanship voluntarily and concentrate on his campaign for state Senate.

Shapp has chosen Harvey

Thiemann, 28, one of his aides who controls patronage jobs, as Scales' successor. Thiemann appears to be the favorite.

Scales said he will announce his decision at the same time he schedules the party's annual reorganization meeting. The by-laws call for a meeting within six weeks of the primary election.

Thiemann has been waiting in the wings since last January, when Scales promised to resign and suddenly changed his mind. Scales vowed to keep the chairmanship until an audit was performed on the books.

The audit was designed to find some $300,000 in campaign funds that had been lost in a maze of bad bookkeeping. The results have not yet been released and Scales has been evasive about them.

Scales possibly is waiting until the reorganization meeting to unveil the audit results. The findings could decide the election for the chairmanship.

Two other candidates have announced they are running for the job. They are Rep. Harry Englehart, D-Cambria, House caucus chairman, and Daniel Berger, a Pittsburgh attorney.

Englehart claims he is running because Thiemann cannot "unify" the badly fragmented party. But he admits he does not have any vote commitments.

The Ebsenburgh attorney said he was promised support from Cambria County's powerful party chairman, John Torquato, who he later learned was supporting Thiemann. Torquato's endorsements means a sizable bloc of votes.

"I'll just have to proceed without him," Englehart said. "But I'm not dropping out at this point."

Berger, who defected from the Shapp camp, was expected to pin down a few votes from commitments from Pittsburgh and suburban Philadelphia.

Shapp called 14 party leaders, most of them county chairmen, to the executive mansion last week to line up support for Thiemann. Sources said all who could not support him were asked to leave, but no one left.

The 14 men promised to provide Thiemann with at least 103 votes, enough for a simple majority of the 200-member Democratic State Committee.

Shapp said he is convinced that Thiemann will win, bringing the state committee once and for all under the wing of the governor's office.

Casey: Faulty welfare roll practices costing $100,000

HARRISBURG (UPI) — Auditor General Robert Casey has released figures showing faulty welfare department practices in Philadelphia's Ridge District and in Bucks County cost the state over $100,000.

In the Ridge District, Casey said the office did not investigate cases of suspected fraud within the required 60-day time limit. He said $61,000 was paid out which should have been withheld pending an investigation.

In Bucks County, the auditor general said 37 cases of suspected fraud were uncovered in Doylestown and Levittown. He said the cases were referred to the state police and the claims settlement division of the Public Welfare Department for investigation and possible prosecution.

There were 14 suspected fraud cases in Doylestown totaling $24,841. In Levittown, there were 23 cases amounting to $15,500.

The cases audited represented about 12 per cent of the total caseload in the two cities. The Ridge District report came two weeks after a similar one made on the city's North district office. There, Casey's auditors found about $42,000 in improper payments made through the same faulty system.

Welfare Secretary Helen Wohlgenuth answered Casey's last report by ordering Philadelphia welfare officials to try to speed up action on challenged cases.

State GOP endorses war policy

HARRISBURG (UPI) — The Republican State Committee has unanimously endorsed President Nixon's war policy in Southeast Asia.

In a resolution adopted Saturday the 177-member committee noted the North Vietnamese have refused "the generous terms for a just, negotiated peace offered by the United States and South Vietnam."

"The North Vietnamese reply to these offers has been naked aggression, as the armies of the North have mounted a full-scale invasion of the Republic of South Vietnam," the resolution said. "President Nixon has undertaken those actions necessary to the defense of both American lives and the freedom of the South Vietnamese people."

Stroud Club ends year at banquet

STROUDSBURG — Riding the crest of a successful year, the Stroud Community Woman's Club had a light-hearted program at their banquet held at the King Arthur Room, Sciota.

Two serious notes, tempered the meeting. The first was the installation of officers by the president of the Monroe County Federation of Woman's Clubs, Mrs. Russell Speicher.

Mrs. Lawrence Musselman, president; Mrs. Robert Payne, first vice president; Mrs. Frederick Mueller, second vice president; Mrs. Robert Stinson, recording secretary; Mrs. Bernard Helmann, corresponding secretary and Mrs. William Black, treasurer.

The second was an appeal from the county federation not for money but for blood needed for open heart surgery for the nine-year-old daughter of a former federation officer, Mrs. Ralph Harrison.

The operation, scheduled for some time in June, will require a minimum of 25 pints of blood.

Mrs. Donald DeHaven, concluding two years as president of the group, was presented with a watch in appreciation for her service to the club and a scrapbook of the club's activities during her administration.

In return she presented a notebook and the keys to the Stroud Mansion to the new president.

The program followed the light hearted theme. Introduced by Mrs. Bernard Helmann, the Black Diamond Four, a barbershop quartet presented a program of songs and stories which won great applause from the audience.

Square dances scheduled

TOBYHANNA — The Ladies Auxiliary of Coolbaugh Twp. is sponsoring a round and square dance on Friday, May 19 from 9 to 12 p.m. at the Tobyhanna firehall.

It is the first of a series of dances which will be held every other week.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

There were a lot of Stroud Community Woman's Club members in a rather small room at the banquet at the King Arthur Restaurant the other night and until your ears got adjusted to the volume of the chatter, it was hard to catch up on the news.

But when you did, it was lots of fun. Like the big argument between Mr. and Mrs. Russell Speicher about who was to have the family car. As president of the Monroe County Federation of Woman's Clubs, Mrs. Speicher needed it to install officers. As a member of the Blue Diamond Quarter, Russell needed it or they wouldn't have a tenor.

Heaven's knows who would have won if they hadn't discovered that they both were going to the same place at the same time. And having dinner, solo, in the same place at the same time was the husband of one of our Greek foursome, happily worrying the worry beads his wife had brought him.

In fact, in common with all

HOUSE OF FABRICS, 725 N. 9th St., Strbg., Pa.

Fashion show in new store

EAST STROUDSBURG — "You, your family, and fashions from Grant's" will be the theme of a fashion show to be held Tuesday night at 7:30 in the women's apparel departments of the W. T. Grant's store, which officially opens today in East Stroudsburg's Pocono Plaza.

The show will concentrate on dresses and sportswear for women and children, although the store also has a large department for men.

"We do not expect all people will be petite," Domenick Fazio, store manager, said in pointing to a long skirted hostess gown in size 52 for the larger women, adding "Or that all of them will be young." Naturally, we cater to the young. Young people and young trends are wonderful. But we are not so youth-oriented that we forget our older customers.

The show will feature models in varied age groups. There will be Angela and Karla Edinger, aged two and five, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Edinger; five-year-old Michael Beers, son of Mr. and Mrs. King Beers; 10-year-old Jay Adelmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Adelmann, and Susie Gluck, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Gluck.

The younger set is represented by Patty Parker, a student at the Barblow School of Modeling; Prudy Bentzoni and Susan Monelli, local professional models; and Beverly Graver, a student at East Stroudsburg State College.

More mature models will include Peggy Cannon, a member of Burnley Workshop staff with a background in fashion merchandizing; Florence Marsh, an accomplished seamstress and businesswoman, and Hilda Kitzman, past president of the local Business and Professional Women's Club.

Nobody, however, will be modeling the "52's".

Overseeing the show is Russell Hunter, store merchandizing manager, assisted by Mrs. Lamb and Sharon Andrews of the dress, sportswear and accessories departments. Mrs. Lamb comes from New York City where she was department manager and fashion buyer for Klein's and later the Gertz Store. Her husband is employed in security at the Monroe County General Hospital. Mrs. Andrews is from Norfolk, Va.,

where she managed Suzie Casuals, an apparel, jewelry and accessories store.

Production of the show has been handled by Madalyn Voit who will also serve as narrator. Mrs. Voit for 16 years was heard daily over WVPO in a shopping program. The setting is being arranged by Arthur A. Widmer, area artist and organ background will be presented by Burl Milheim, Pen Argyl.

The bidding:

Pass 1♥ Pass 3♦
Pass 3♥ Pass 3♦
Pass 4NT Pass 7♦
Pass 7♥ Pass 7NT

Opening lead — queen of spades.

This dramatic hand occurred in the playoff last fall between the Dallas Aces and a team headed by Lew Mathe of Los Angeles. The Aces won the 160-board match handily, and so earned the right to represent the United States in the 1972 World Olympiad.

When Goldman and Lawrence were North-South for the Aces at the first table, the bidding went as shown. There were of course many different ways of arriving at the optimum contract of seven notrump, but it's hard to quarrel with the Goldman-Lawrence sequence that got them there. Some expert opinion, ventured at the time, held that Lawrence should have passed seven hearts instead of bidding seven notrump, this argument being based on the dread possibility that Goldman might not have the king of clubs as an entry to the hearts. However, Lawrence was 100 per cent right in the actual case — seven notrump is a safer contract than seven hearts. Besides, it's always hard to argue with success.

At the second table, with Krauss and Mathe respectively North-South the bidding was more brisk. It went:

West North East South
Pass 1♥ Pass 3♦
Pass 1♥ Pass 7♦
Pass Pass Pass

This contract failed when the diamonds proved to be divided 4-1, and the Mathe team lost 2,320 points on the deal!

Mathe was heavily criticized for his splurge to seven diamonds, and it does seem that he could have adopted a more leisurely pace in approaching the grand slam. Krauss also came in for criticism for passing seven diamonds, though the weight of opinion was that his pass was correct.

Regardless of who was to blame, the fact remains that a cold vulnerable grand slam went down the drain.

Mailbox cleanup set for May 15-20

STROUDSBURG — "Mailbox Improvement Week," a traditional observance which contributes nationally to environmental quality, will be observed May 15-20, Stroudsburg Postmaster Fred H. Rhodes announced Friday.

For several years, the start of Mailbox Improvement Week has served as a signal for special community efforts to encourage repairing, painting and other improvements in the security and appearance of about 18.5 million rural and suburban curblinetype boxes.

The observance helps in promoting the security of mail as well as in contributing to the appearance of the boxes, which may often be damaged by the previous winter's weather, according to Rhodes.

The special week has been observed for generations, particularly in rural areas and smaller communities, Rhodes said. "The effort is still especially important for rural delivery areas because more Americans receive their mail today on rural routes than ever before."

The typical rural or curblin mailbox today is a "far cry" from improvised receptacles used by country dwellers in the early years of rural service, starting in 1896, when old tin cans nailed to trees were early favorites.

He said, "Today, manufacturers, in cooperation with the Postal Service, have developed modernistic designs, suitable for use with decorative posts."

Rhodes said as part of the May 15-20 observance, he is seeking community assistance in promoting the campaign and asking all personnel directly involved in suburban curblin and rural deliveries to cooperate with householders in making certain their receptacles comply with regulations on such matters as safety and accessibility.

Write to know

The people in The Pocono Record circulation have a "Write to Know" — and The Record will try to provide the answers in the "Write to know" column. The column, designed to answer questions or solve any problems (consumer, government or anything else) will appear every Friday on the first page of the second section. Send all questions to "Write to Know," The Pocono Record, 511 Lenox St., Stroudsburg, Pa. 18360. Questions should be in writing and signed. No telephone calls, please.

Just recently I attended a movie at the Sherman Theater in Stroudsburg. During the movie I found it was most disconcerting to be able to hear the sound track of the movie being shown next door. I am wondering if the owner of the theater plans to do anything about this distraction, which can be very annoying, particularly if one has paid $2.50 per ticket to see the performance?

C.R., East Stroudsburg

A. — According to a theater spokesman the sound in the two theaters may have been improved by recent innovation of the air conditioning system. He said some of the complaints relating to sound stemmed from the fact the air conditioning system for the two theaters was centralized. Now there are two cooling units and the acoustics in the cinema house should be better for it. See another movie and try it out if you haven't been there since the first week in May when the work was done.

Q. — We have already filed and received our 1971 income tax refund. The problem is we haven't received our 1970 tax refund yet. My husband has inquired at the income tax department at the Stroudsburg Post Office but nothing has resulted from that. What, if anything, can be done? I am sure if we owed the Federal Government money they would have collected it in a lot less than a year!

Mrs. J.B., East Stroudsburg

A. — You're right, and they already have. We contacted the Internal Revenue Service regional office in Scranton and inquired about your dilemma. They reported the refund you recently received was not your 1971 refund but your 1970 refund. They noted that parts of the $503 refund you applied for were applied to deficiencies in your 1968 and 1969 returns, thus leaving a balance of $179 on your 1970 refund which they said was mailed to you on or about April 9. They said your 1971 return would be in the mail soon.

Q. — I would like to know if there isn't some way to direct traffic in the North Ninth Street shopping area. I mean the area involving the Acme, Giant Market, Mitche's Market, the bank and the Burger Chef. This need not be a full time procedure but I feel it is of major importance that this be done on Fridays, especially between 3:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. I feel we have been very fortunate in not having more serious accidents in this area.

L.C.G., Stroud Township

A. — We contacted James Somers, Stroud Township supervisor and executive head of the Stroud Township Police Department, and he agreed traffic in that area, including the Chipperfield Drive-North Ninth Street intersection, did become quite congested at times. He stated the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation Traffic Department in Allentown as well as members of the local police department have recently conducted traffic surveys of that area and found that a traffic light system would be too costly to the township within its current fiscal budget. To manually direct traffic there would require two or three men at a time, said Somers, and the present law enforcement duties in the township place too great a demand on the police department to release that many men for such duty at one time. He also noted the number of traffic accidents in that area has been low and urged motorists to continue driving with caution.

Q. — I recently lost a gasoline credit card and, by the time I was able to notify the company, someone had already used it to buy several tires. Am I required to pay for this?

R.B., Brodheadsville

A. — Under recent amendments to the federal Truth-in-Lending Law, the liability to the cardholder is limited to the lesser of $50 or the value of goods or services obtained by the unauthorized user before notification to the issuer.

Waste committee to tell officials about recycling

STROUDSBURG — Members of the Solid Waste Advisory Committee are expected to tell the Monroe County Commissioners today why the most sophisticated recycling operation in the country cannot be adopted to Monroe County at this time.

Richard Walsh and Donald Gage of the committee will present a detailed report on a recent trip to Franklin, Ohio, to tour a recycling plant built by Black and Clawson under the auspices of the Environmental Protection Agency.

The inspection was part of the county's ongoing search for a means of solid waste disposal. Having ruled out landfill as a total solution, the commissioners are exploring all means of volume reduction, incineration, recycling and hauling.

Commissioner William F. Quinn, who was along on the inspection tour, said Friday the recycling operation is not adaptable to the county at this time because Monroe County does not have sufficient waste or markets for processed waste.

Quinn said the plant could be put in Monroe County without any problem of pollution, but would not be economically feasible.

In order to make a recycling plant payoff, there has to be a tremendous volume of waste processed for sale to available glass, metal and paper materials markets.

In Franklin, the plant serves a roofing paper market and is expected to supply glass markets when the glass separating machinery is installed this summer.

The plant is a combination incinerator-recycling unit manned by a plant manager and three employees. Quinn said the noise pollution from the plant is minimal and the air pollution hardly noticeable.

He said houses are constructed no more than a few blocks from the plant.

One of the reasons the landfill concept of waste disposal was recently abandoned by the county was because of objections raised by citizens living in the area of potential landfill sites.

The Ohio plant was constructed at a capital cost of $2.5 million and was operational in May of 1971. It serves a population of approximately 12,000 and costs about six dollars per ton of refuse, according to an EPA spokesman.

A similar system in a community the size of Franklin without a supporting federal grant would result in a $25 per ton cost, the spokesman said.

A population of 60,000 is considered to be the minimum for economic feasibility. Even then, the plant depends on the markets for the recycled material.

Land developers fete Flory on area service

HAZLETON — Jesse R.S. Flory, president of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce, was honored by the Pennsylvania Vacation Land Developers Assn. upon his retirement as a member of that group's board of directors.

Flory, former East Stroudsburg mayor and recently retired senior vice-president of Northeastern National Bank of Pennsylvania, served on the PVLDA board since the association's inception in 1964.

Approximately 60 land developers and associate members attended the meeting, sponsored by Leisure Equities Corp., developer of a number of tracts in the Poconos.

Flory was recognized in a citation given to him for his long service to Monroe County. It reads in part:

"Born in East Stroudsburg with Monroe County roots over 200 years old, you have made the word SERVICE the hallmark of your entire life. Your intimate knowledge of the Pocono Mountains community which has sprung from those roots has been deepened through community involvement down many avenues..."

Said Executive Secretary Raymond L. Howe in presenting the citation: "It is indeed fitting that PVLDA, a child of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce, should salute you as a retiring director as you enter your third term as president... where your particular skills in uniting diverse elements of you community for the common good have also been recognized..."

Flory is a past president of the Stroudsburg Rotary Club and the Monroe County Community Chest. He has been a director of the Monroe County YMCA and had a 30-year career in landscape architecture with LaBar's Nursery of Stroudsburg following his graduation from Penn State.

County PARC group aiding in 'childhunt'

STROUDSBURG — Fifty thousand retarded children in the state are waiting to be found and the Monroe County Chapter of the Pennsylvania Association for Retarded Children (PARC) has joined in the search for them.

Through its statewide "Childhunt" program, PARC hopes to locate these retarded children between the ages of six and 21 who have been guaranteed the right to a free public education by a recent federal court order, explained John O'Rourke, president of the organization's Monroe County chapter.

These children, he noted, are neither in schools or training programs and are totally without any education for their special needs. But, before they can be educated, they must be found, he added.

The "Childhunt" follows on the heels of a PARC suit filed against the state in January, 1971, which charged that mentally retarded children were being denied their constitutional right to a free public program of education and training.

Rather than opposing the suit, the state entered into a consent agreement, launching the first educational program of its kind for retarded children in the country and guaranteeing they will have equal access to education by September.

In addition to inaugurating a policy that retarded children will be kept in public schools whenever possible, the state's agreement specifies no child will be transferred from a regular class to a special class without proper notice to the parents. Also, special instruction will be provided for children who cannot leave their homes.

While compelling parents to place retarded children between the ages of eight and 17 in a school program, the new agreement also opens public funded pre-school programs where available to mentally retarded children prior to age six.

O'Rourke recommended the easiest way for parents of a mentally retarded child to notify their school district that the child is ready for either school or some other educational program is by mailing them a letter.

Following registration at the school, the child will be tested and an educational assignment made. O'Rourke stressed that parents disagreeing with the school's placement recommendation have the option of requesting a hearing which has been designed to permit the parents to speak for their retarded child.

Through the "Childhunt" program, O'Rourke noted parents of a retarded child and others knowing of a retarded child who is not in school or any type of educational program are being asked to contact PARC's Monroe County chapter at 101 Maple St., Stroudsburg, or by telephoning 424-0955.

County chips in 0.32 per cent

Sales tax hits $3.2 million

Record Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG — State sales and use tax collections in Monroe County during the past fiscal year totaled $3,284,745, according to the State Department of Revenue.

The Monroe County collection amounted to .39 per cent of the total sales and use tax collected during the year throughout the state.

The use tax is paid at the locales of the purchaser rather than at the locale where the purchase was made and in the case of chain stores, sales tax collections are remitted from a central or home office rather than from the store or establishment where the collection took place.

With the sales tax returns generally regarded as one of the barometers of the degree of economic prosperity, a look back over the preceding three years insofar as Monroe County is concerned is perhaps of interest.

For example, in the preceding 1969-70 fiscal year sales and use tax collections for the county amounted to $3,043,880 (.38 per cent of the total collected throughout the state), while the 1968-69 fiscal year saw sales tax collections of $2,768,703 (.38 per cent of the total), and $2,232,163 in 1967-68 (.36 per cent).

Another economic barometer but by no means as "potent" as the sales tax is reflected in the realty transfer tax collections representing real estate movement.

In the case of Monroe County this has been the pattern on realty transfer tax collections during the four fiscal years: 1967-68 — $213,873; 1968-69 — $241,126; 1969-70 — $289,702, and 1970-71 — $343,024.

In a third tax collection area, although not one regarded as affected by the economy, state collections of the inheritance tax show the following for Monroe County during the four-year span: 1967-68 — $247,091; 1968-69 — $363,593; 1969-70 — $420,142, and 1970-71 — $498,679.

State sales and use tax collections in Pike County totaled $618,399 during the past fiscal year or .07 per cent of the total throughout the state, while 1969-70 collections amounted to $517,571; 1968-69 — $464,668 (.06 per cent), and $372,027 in 1967-68 (.06 per cent).

Really transfer tax collections during the four fiscal years in Pike County areas follows: 1967-68 — $126,994; 1968-69 — $183,071; 1969-70 — $199,939, and 1970-71 — $242,744.

Collection scheduled

STROUDSBURG — Roland Featherman, chairman of the Stroudsburg Lions Club, Cop-Out Day Committee, has announced plans to set up a collection point for old unused drugs and medications at Grant's department store in the new East Stroudsburg shopping plaza May 20.

Malloy critically hurt in accident

Unser virtually clinches pole at 195.940

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Brave Bobby Unser, the 1968 race winner, hurtled his challenging Eagle around the famed Speedway at a record pace of nearly 196 miles per hour Sunday to virtually clinch the pole position for the $1 million 500.

A member of the illustrious Albuquerque, N.M., racing clan, Unser ignored strong late-afternoon winds to be the fastest of 12 qualifiers for the May 27 auto classic. But Jim Malloy, another Speedway veteran, was severely injured in a fiery crash that knocked him unconscious.

Malloy, of Denver, Colo. — fourth in last year's race and who will be 37 on May 23 — was air-lifted to a downtown Indianapolis hospital in critical condition with second degree burns, broken legs and a fractured arm.

A mid-afternoon bulletin by Dr. Thomas Hanna, the Speedway's medical director, said Malloy was responding to treatment and was out of deep shock. His condition, however, remained critical.

Saturday's initial time trials were washed out and Sunday's appeared also to be headed down the drain because of sporadic showers and thunderstorms. But weather conditions cleared in the afternoon in time for trials to get underway.

There were two other crashes, but the drivers involved — Steve Krisloff of Parsippany, N.J., and Bill Vukovich of Fresno, Calif., — escaped unhurt.

Unser, driving one of Dan Gurney's Offenhauser-powered machines, averaged 195.940 miles per hour on his record 10-mile run and his third lap of 196.678 was his fastest. They compared with last year's records of 179.394 and 178.696 m.p.h. for one and four laps, respectively, by Peter Revson, who had still to qualify.

Other successful qualifiers Sunday in order of their speeds were Gary Bettenhausen, Tingley Park, Ill., 188.877; former race winner Mario Andretti, Nazareth, Pa., 187.617; Joe Leonard, San Jose, Calif., 185.223; Sam Posey, San Juan Capistrano, Calif., 184.379; Johnny Rutherford, Fort Worth, Tex., 183.234; Swede Savage, Santa Ana, Calif., 181.728; Art Pollard, Medford, Ore., 181.628; Lloyd Ruby, Wichita Falls, Tex., 181.415; Jim Hurtubise, North Tonawanda, N.Y., 181.050; John Martin, Long Beach, Calif., 179.614 and Wally Dallenbach, East Brunswick, N.J., 178.421.

Posey, Savage and Martin

became the first rookies to qualify for this year's race.

Besides Revson, last year's pole sitter, other prominent speedsters as Mark Donohue, defending champion Al Unser, three-time winner A.J. Foyt, Gordon Johncock and Vukovich must get their shot before Bobby Unser can claim the No. 1 starting position. However, none of the other challengers have come close to the blistering speed which Bobby Unser posted Sunday.

L.L. opens season for 1972

STROUDSBURG — The 1972 Little League season officially opened Saturday with two games in the East Stroudsburg League and four at Stroudsburg.

At East Stroudsburg Tom Carmella fired a one-hitter to lead Counterman's to a 15-0 rout of Litt's. Andy Secor and Daron Epply had doubles for the winner.

Terry Miller homered and struck out 14 as he pitched Holiday Inn to a 12-5 win over Harold W. Miller. Guy Freeman added a triple for Holiday Inn.

In Stroudsburg play Paul Warnick had two hits and picked up the win as Monroe Security beat Gray's Chevrolet, 6-5. Bob Phillips had two hits for the loser.

Wyckoff scored three runs in the fifth inning and went on to beat Ronson, 10-7. Elks scored a run in the seventh inning to nip Big "N", 5-4, while First National managed one hit as it lost to Litt's, 8-1.

Colonial golf title to Heard

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Californian Jerry Heard, one of pro golf's rampant young bucks, soared into second place in four winnings with $106,336 Sunday by hanging on for a two-shot Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament victory with a five-under-par 275.

The 25-year-old Fresno State product from Visalia, Calif., tried to give his lead away with putting troubles and a double bogey on the 17th hole but none of his challengers could take the opportunity of the open door and Heard sealed his victory with a 25-foot birdie putt on the final green for a 37-38-73.

Relay team, Adams, Davis win league track crowns

NORTHAMPTON — Stroudsburg broke a three-year-old record in the one-mile relay and added two individual winners Saturday as it finished third in the Lehigh Valley League track and field championships.

The Mounties, who will defend their District 11 Class "B" title Friday night at Allentown, finished with 24 points. Emmaus won the meet with 72 points while Lehigh was second with 24.

The one-mile relay team of Gary Olson, Tony Romano, Steve Anglo and Mark Adams turned in a 3:32.5 which broke the record of 3:33.1 set by Slatington in 1969. It also broke the school record of 3:34.3.

One of the reasons for the record was the anchor leg run by Adams. Adams, who has the best time of the season in the 440, ran a blistering 49.7

anchor to wipe out a six-yard deficit in a head-to-head race with Emmaus' Charlie Norrell.

Adams easily won the 440-yard dash title with a 51.7 and took fourth place in the triple jump. The other Lehigh Valley League champion turned out by Stroudsburg was Marc Davis, who won the 100-yard dash in 10.7.

Doug Brown took a fourth place in the shot with a 45-10 1/2 while the two-mile relay team finished fifth. Rich Mosier threw the discus 129-9 1/2 to take fifth place. It was the first time Stroudsburg picked up points in the discus or shot.

Seagren tops mark holder; Ryun fails in King Games

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Olympic champion Bob Seagren topped 18-foot Kjel Isaksson with a 17-6 pole vault and unsung Dave Wottle of Bowling Green won the mile in 3:58.5 despite a driving rain Sunday as world record-holder Jim Ryun finished next to last, nearly 60 yards back in the third annual Martin Luther King Freedom Games at Franklin Field.

Seagren began his quest for a second straight Olympic gold medal by defeating Isaksson, the current world record holder (18-2) and the early-line favorite for top honors in Munich this summer. After clearing 17-6 as Isaksson missed, Seagren tried three times for 18 feet but failed.

Ryun, who lost to Villanova's Marty Liquori in the same meet last year, fell back early and was never a factor in the mile, which Wottle won after dueling Howell Michael of the Quantico-Marines stride for stride down the stretch. Both Wottle and Michael were timed in 3:58.5.

Isaksson thought the wind was even worse than the rain. "I could've done much better," the 21-year-old Swede said. "But the conditions were obviously not too good. However, the wind hindered me more than the rain. Waiting so long between jumps when the wind comes up like that it's actually dangerous to jump."

The menacing weather failed to deter Madelyn Manning Jackson from Cleveland, who over-shadowed the more famous Ryun and Seagren when she tied a world's record of 2:02 minutes flat for the women's 880-yard dash.

ESSC finishes fourth in archery tournament

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. — East Stroudsburg State College matched its 1971 finish by placing fourth in the United States Intercollegiate Archery Championships Saturday at San Bernardino Valley College.

The Warriorettes had a team score of 4,860. Arizona State won the title with 5,134 with Palomar, Calif. second at 5,091 and San Bernardino third, 4,918. Florida Tech, 4,846, was fifth.

A total of 18 women's teams competed. There were 164 archers, 79 women and 85 men, from 35 different colleges. Janet Kemmerer of ESSC placed ninth in the individual competition with 1,679. Debby Green of Riverside, Calif. won the women's competition with 1,830.

Other ESSC scores were Linda Gelok 1,598, Jean Schmalzer 1,583 and Barbara Hails 1,416.

The men's winner was Steve Lieberman of Arizona State, a member of the United States' national team, with a score of 2,090. San Bernardino was the men's team champion.

East Stroudsburg will play host to the same tournament next year. The scheduled dates are May 17-19 on the ESSC campus fields.

Mays homers as Mets win

NEW YORK (UPI)—Willie Mays, greeted by a standing ovation in his first game appearance as a Met, repaid the tribute by hitting a game-winning homer in the fifth inning Sunday to lead New York to a 5-4 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

The 41-year-old Mays, who started at first base and was put into the lead off spot in the batting order by Manager Yogi Berra, snapped a 4-4 tie with the 647th homer of his career as the lead off batter in the fifth. The homer, which came on a 3-2 pitch off reliever Don Carriethers, was the 1,860th RBI of Mays' career and moved him into third place on the all-time National League list. Only Stan Musial and Henry Aaron top Mays in that department among NL sluggers.

Mays, acquired by the Mets from the Giants last Thursday but kept out of action in the first two games of the series against his ex-teammates, received a standing ovation from the Mother's Day crowd of 35,505 when he walked to the plate in the first inning. He promptly started the Mets on the way to a four-run inning by drawing a walk off southpaw Sam McDowell.

McDowell followed by walking Bud Harrelson and Tommie Agee to load the bases and Rusty Staub then cleared them by belting a grand slam homer off the scoreboard in right center field.

Ray Sadecki protected the lead until the fifth when the Giants erupted for four runs to tie the score.

Jim McAndrew took over for Sadecki in the sixth and blanked the Giants over the last four innings to preserve Sadecki's first victory of the season.

ESSC ends baseball year by splitting with Rams

WEST CHESTER — East Stroudsburg State College ended its baseball season by splitting a doubleheader with arch-rival West Chester Saturday.

The Warriors took the first game, 6-3, with three runs in the sixth inning. West Chester came back to take the second contest, 4-2, behind Bob Reed's three-hit pitching.

Behind 3-2, Coach Lee Roberts' team bunched three hits in the sixth inning to win the opener. Dennis Acker slugged a double and Dave Wilson and Charlie Sandora followed with singles.

Wilson had three hits in the game with Acker and Tom Redies getting two apiece. Winning pitcher Al Calvo belted a solo homer in the third inning.

A pair of two-run rallies in the first and sixth innings gave West Chester its second-game win. The key hit was a single by Jim Trumbo which drove in two runs.

John Varacallo had two of the three ESSC hits off Reed, a senior lefthander. Acker added a single to give him three hits for the day.

The split left ESSC with a final record of 11-14-1, the most games ever played by the school in baseball. West Chester is now 11-10.

New York's Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Maria Callas has a new fella. At the Juilliard College of Music where she's teaching: Dean Peter Mennin. Shirley MacLaine's always battling for the underdog, but when it comes to her own star-billing, she's a greasepaint reaction: Perry King has the title role in "The Possession of Joe Delaney" but Sholli won't let him be billed with her — even under her — over the film's title. Brilliant choreographer Peter Gennaro sold his Paramus, N.J., mansion (for $150,000) and moves to Manhattan this fall. "The Godfather" is close to stealing its first $50 million gross, but Paramount has another comparatively pet-larcenous flick, "Let's Scare Jessica to Death," coining a commprable profit-versus-investment.

Dialogue of "Othello" on the London stage with W. Indian actor Rudolph Walker (British star Judy Geeson will be paid $45 a week as his Desdemona) is mostly Shakespeare's, but it's mixed with words and attitudes of such U.S. blacks as Malcolm X, Eldridge Cleaver, Stokely Carmichael, James Baldwin etc. ... Even David Cassidy says he's bored with his face on one teeny-fam mag these last 24 consecutive issues.

None of the new theaters built here or elsewhere will have second balconies. The new Shubert in L.A. will have only one because Shubert Pres. Lawrence Shubert Lawrence says cheaper seats always sell last. We didn't see a legitimate stage show straight ahead until we were past 20: we always bought the 2nd balcony church-like pews for 26 cents at matinees, 55 cents at night at the venerable Shubert Tech in exotic Buffalo.

Sammy Davis' present management finally has him almost out of debt. Used to be Sammy gambled, ordered anything and never asked price; when he made his cross-country tour he was set to pay $300,000 just for the jet to transport his 38 employees, hangers-on etc. — until someone asked Howard Hughes how much he'd charge Sammy for a jet. Considering it was Sammy, HH shaved the $300 price in half.

Fla.'s Gov. Reubin Askew

serves nothing but apple juice at his guv's mansion parties. The teetotaler gov. says, "You'd be amazed how early folks go home." ... You'd think the supposedly chic Beach Club in Palm Beach would be too circumspect for such nips, but when King Hussein of Jordan was disporting there, three old babes took turns cutting in on his dances, and his host — Jim Kimberley — dashed off a letter to the club calling the irritation a "disgrace."

Wife of a recently demised Palm beacher discovered when she tried to get into the swanky Everglades Club that she'd never been a member, had been politely countenanced while he'd been alive. ... That's the palmy premises wherein Leonard Bernstein was asked to leave the first tee as he started to play golf. Music critics!

The fabled Loehmann's chain of stores (started by the present chairman's mother selling ladies' marked-down duds from her tenement flat in Brooklyn) now is a 26-store $20,000,000 miracle, peddling everything from $2.99 frocks to Norell wowsers worth $3,000, all marked down of course and all the latest styles. ... The trick: they buy everything famed manufacturers have left at the tag end of seasonal inventories.

A very happy 77 to Archbishop Sheen. ... Clifford Irving's agent had the chutzpah to try and sell his "Book About the Book" to McGraw-Hill, which he'd bilked so richly. Insiders suspect major publishers won't touch it with a ten-foot royalty. ... He'll have no trouble shlocking it off.

Janet Leigh's in the shock-violent "Night of the Lepus" (formerly "Rabbits"), but she refused to let her two children play minor roles. "I won't let them even see horror movies," Momma Leigh cringed. ... NBC's spending some $2,000,000 on Johnny Carson's H'wood building. In return, NBC spies tell us he'll extend his current NBC pact two extra years.

No copione dinner for "Bev Hillbillies" star Buddy Ebsen. At the Casino Russe, the only seemingly cornball performer started his feast with caviar, dunked a bit of vichyssoise, chomped some boeuf stroganoff topped by two orders of apricot souffle. Nary a burp. ... The N.J. Mafia's rumored next to shoot into the headlines. ... The familiar green N.Y. buses are turning blue. It's the pollution. New ones are blue & silver.

No mother-in-law jokes for Irene Kuo: her mom-in-law, Mme. Lien Kuo, was served 16 gourmet courses at Irene's Ginko Tree restaurant. Irene's brother-in-law, Kuo-ling Yu, consul general in N.Y., toasted the handsome old aristocrat on her 85th birthday. ... Ali MacGraw and hubby Bob Evans are being shaken by someone distributing the usual rumors. ... Phil Iselin, president of Monmouth Track (and the N.J. Jets), is off to study off-track betting in France and England where they seem to balance the OTB without hurting the handle at the tracks. Phil says it's potential disaster here. ... And a Happy 73 to Fred Astaire. ... Another brace of septuagenarians, Charles Lachman and David Lewis, who have produced a series of smash films in the last five years ("More," "My Night at Maud's" etc.) will produce a musical version of "Tom Jones" in London on its way to Bdwy.

Eileen Fulton, TV soap opera villainess these last 13 years in "As the World Turns," sent out gifts from a Grove St. Greenwich Village shop, "The Soap Opera," to celebrate the sudsy happy anniversary of her hateful success: all sweet-smelling soap. ... Many midtown N.Y. apartment houses desperately have given up on the cops and are hiring their own badged and bluecoated private bulls. ... The U.S. Commerce Dept. opened a cooking school (16-week course) to teach Chinese how to make American versions of authentic Oriental delicacies. ... Nixon-imitator David Frye's concert was cancelled. No advance ticket sale. Same nasty little act does get monotonous. ... Umberto's Clam House, where gangster Joey Gallo was killed, was reviewed by New York Mag's underground gourmet. ... Really, the underworld gourmet should have done it. ... Rated four bullets, at least.

Japanese cameras are cheap in Tokyo — and Red Chinese-made cameras are even cheaper and starting to turn up in Tokyo shops. ... Trend? Las Vegas Union Plaza Hotel gives trading stamps with every $5 slots jackpot. ... Evelyn Scott was the lady-bartender in "Peyton Place" for five TV years. She's back again on the new soap opera version, and she still doesn't drink nor does she know how to make one.

Max Gordon marveled to us at a recent first night flop how producers of such junk can find angels for such unholy disasters, especially at today's huge musical comedy costs. We asked Max what his big musical "The Great Waltz" had cost. Max said

$243,000, "and today that wouldn't even pay for the three gig chandeliers in that show." True. But today's angels rush in where fools should fear to invest. ... The multi-Tony Awards to "Follies" lifted that longrun musical's gross almost $17,000 last week. ... Peter Falk fielded an unexpected final line in

"Prisoner of 2nd Ave." when he reached into the set's hall closet to pull out a shovel as called for in the Neil Simon playscript. No shovel. Falk made a fist and announced to the audience, "I have a shovel in my hand." The audience, always delighted to be "in" on such a gambit, roared approval.

Drop the bum

HE INSISTS: (Q.) This guy I am going out with now is nice. I can really talk to him. He is 22 and I am 16. I haven't found any boys my age I can get along with.

Another thing different is that with him I have had intercourse — three times in the month and a half we've been going together.

I tell him we shouldn't but he gets upset when I say no and keeps after me. He says he suffers when we don't. I am so afraid of getting pregnant. But when I do finally say yes I feel a lot closer to him and we don't fight. I still know I shouldn't.

Please tell me how I can keep him and stop the sex.

Can't Say No in Pennsylvania (A.) He says he "suffers" if you don't. You are suffering because you do, and the odds are that you will suffer more if you do not stop letting this man use you for his own convenience.

You shouldn't try to keep him. You should get rid of him now. He is too old for you. He is taking advantage of you. Please stop seeing him before it is too late. I only hope it is not already too late.

BOY-GIRL WORDS: (Q.) I am a sophomore and sometimes I hear some of the older girls talk about someone being "pinned" or "dropped." I don't know what these words mean and I'm afraid if I ask one of those older girls she will laugh and think I'm stupid. Do you know?

Wants to Know in Oklahoma

(A.) The term "dropped" applied to a girl is similar to saying she is going steady. It occurs when a boy gives her his fraternity drop, a small necklace with the frat letters.

"Pinned," which means a boy has given a girl his fraternity pin, is usually more like pre-engagement.

These usages, however, can mean different things in different localities. The best way to find out what any word means in your area is to ask the person using it. You may be put down when you ask questions, but sometimes that is the only way to find out the answers.

SNOB SIGNAL: (Q.) I give a rotten first impression. People think I am a snob when they first meet me. It's awful. All the kids that don't know me well think I'm stuck up. I need help. I am a girl, 12 years old.

Misjudged in Virginia

(A.) A girl who is overly concerned about herself is likely to give the impression of snobishness. She spends so much time fretting about herself that there isn't much time to be concerned with others.

The way to overcome this is to spend so much time helping others that you don't have a lot of time to worry about yourself.

Your answer, I believe, is volunteer work. There are places you can serve in your school, in your church, perhaps later in hospitals, doing things for others.

You will find so many who need your help and you will get so interested in helping them that you won't be mistaken for a snob.

Why? Because you won't be reserved, and distant, and self-centered. Instead you will be open, and caring, with love for others in your heart. When love is in your heart, people can see it in your eyes.

Ann Landers

A real 'gasser'

Dear Ann Landers: I have some advice for the woman who is allergic to her husband's cigarette smoke. It seems the lunkhead insists on smoking the room blue when guests are present because he knows she won't make a scene.

My sister had the same problem. Here's how she solved it. She went to the army surplus store and bought a gas mask. The minute her husband reached for a cigarette she put on the gas mask. Needless to say this gesture attracted a great deal of attention and raised some embarrassing questions. When it became apparent that Mr. Marvelous was an inconsiderate heel who put his pleasure before his wife's health, he cut it out.

If this sounds like a radical measure let me assure you that the situation warranted it. Please print this letter for all the folks out there who are sick of inhaling other people's cigarette smoke and would like to take some positive action.

—Winston Salem
Dear Win: We checked the army surplus stores in Chicago and learned that gas masks are available for $7.95. Thank you for the suggestion: Many a serious message has been relayed on the wings of a "joke."

Dear Ann Landers: I was the Other Woman and now I am the Second Wife. This letter will run counter to the Puritan ethic, so you probably won't print it. But someone ought to make it clear that there are husbands with legitimate gripes — men who tried to make a marriage work, found it impossible, and shoved off.

My husband's first wife nearly doubled her weight within ten years. She ran a pig sty instead of a home, produced several children her husband didn't want (and wasn't ready for), became a screaming hag-mother, was jealous of her husband's friends, spent beyond his income and drove him crazy with her nagging.

I did nothing to attract her husband's attention. I was simply there when he needed someone to talk to. It could have been one of several women, but I happened to be "the one." Contented husbands don't look for outside company. They go home to their families after work. The first wife has the first chance. Whether or not she succeeds depends on how good she is at meeting the challenges of marriage.

—Indignant
Dear Dig: Your position must have some validity because I'm hearing from more and more people who say their second marriage is a lot better than their first. Apparently, some husbands, and some wives, too, must live through an unsuccessful marriage in order to know how to make a second marriage work.

Expensive lesson? You bet, but it's the only way some folks can learn.

Dear Ann: Why do people tip the waitress when the cook spends hours preparing the food and the dishwasher does the dirty work? The waitress sits and smokes while the REAL work is being done in the kitchen. All she does is carry out the plates and collect that nice tip. I wish you'd blast this unfair practice.

—Mad In Sioux Falls
Dear Mad: The waitress is the one whose personality (or lack of it) makes the first impression on the guest. She takes the order and carries the trays that sometimes weigh 30 pounds. She also keeps her eye on the table and makes sure everyone has what he wants — more water, more coffee, steak sauce, more butter, an extra napkin, etc. A good waitress doesn't have time to sit around and smoke. She works like a horse and deserves the tip.

Dear Ann Landers: The dreaded letter came this morning and I've been a wreck ever since. My sister wrote to tell me that she and her husband and their two children want to spend their summer vacation with us again. This will be the fourth consecutive summer — two solid weeks and I can't take it.

My nerves are shot when they leave and my husband says he's not going to have them here again. Yet — how can I tell my own sister that she and her family aren't welcome? I might be able to take a week of her alone — but her children drive me up the wall. They have no bedtime, no manners, and they fight constantly. My sister and her husband scream at them from morning 'til night and the kids pay absolutely no attention to them. My husband grits his teeth, comes home later and later every night — and then I get upset with him. Am I selfish? Am I a bad sister? They can't afford to stay in a motel. Please help me think this through and find the words.

—Denver Heart Trouble

Dear Denver: You've thought it through. Your sister and her family make you sick. Moreover they create trouble between you and your husband. Call your physician and enlist his support. Here are the words you asked me to help find: "Sorry, dear, my doctor says no house guests this year. I can't take the tension. I hope you understand."

Erma Bombeck

For most mothers only

To all the mothers today who got breakfast in bed, a homemade card stuffed with wilting flowers, a vat of bath salts, and a wet kiss, you don't have to read.

This column is for the woman from Minnesota who wrote me last year on Mother's Day night. During the day she had received a spatula which her 11-year-old son had broken before he gave it to her, a pair of mod sunglasses from her daughter who borrowed them before the sun went down, an excuse from her 15-year-old who lamented, "I only had 42 cents" and a black Buddah incense burner which "they knew brought tears from my allergy."

As a woman who has been served breakfast in bed and consequently couldn't get out of it for the rest of the day because the grease hardened and settled in my legs, I can be very smug. As a woman who has also in later years had her family pitch in and buy her a gift certificate for a flu shot, I can empathize with the woman from Minnesota.

I rarely engage in self-pity. It's fattening. But I do know there is something emotional about Mother's Day that causes mothers to sit down and look at their pitiful mound of pocket combs, ballpoint pens, sewing kits, and white lipsticks and say to themselves, "Is this all I am worth to them?"

As you can imagine, a lot of stories on Mother's Day come over my desk each year. One was from a girl who ran on for 12 pages about what a wonderful woman her mother was. She said she had a sense of humor like mine, but she never really appreciated it or told her so. But she had never missed a year visiting her grave. (I'll bet that choked her mother up.)

Another letter was from a man who had his own harem in a home for the aged. He said every Sunday he read my column to the little old ladies who couldn't see too well. He said it took the place of their families who never had time to write or call. They named me their Mother of the Year. (The next time their kids want to be born, I hope someone makes them walk!)

Another woman said her daughter had severed ties with her for ten years and it wasn't until she had children of her own that she returned to her knee again. When she asked, "Mom, what kept you from killing me?" her mother answered, "An archaic law."

I have no intention of delivering a sickening tirade on Motherhood. Mothers are mortal. They're fallible. Some are born to the dish cloth; others are lousy. But I do remember what my son said to me one year. He gave me a bag of party balloons, shrugged his shoulders and said, "You have everything!"

So does the lady from Minnesota. She has an 11-year-old with an apology, a pair of mod sunglasses to share with her daughter, a 15-year-old who thought 42 cents wasn't enough, and a black Buddah incense burner to cry on Mother's Day and blame it on an allergy.

Dentist files suit against riding stable

SCRANTON — Carson's Riding Stable in Paradise Valley is the object of a suit filed in Federal Court here by Atty. Joseph A. Quinn, Jr.

Harvey Wasserman, a dentist from Englishtown, N.J., is plaintiff. Philip Carson, owner of the riding stable, and Wayne Marianelli, a minor from Old Forge are co-defendants in the complaint which demands a jury trial. Wasserman is seeking in excess of $10,000 charging a kick he received from a horse led to loss of his earning capacity. On May 16, 1970, Wasserman was furnished with a horse and while he was mounting it, a second horse allegedly began kicking and struck the dentist causing him to sustain an alleged open fracture of the left tibia and fibula. Wasserman claims injuries impaired his earning capacity from May 16 to June 13, 1970 and partially impaired his earning capacity for six and a half months subsequent to June 13 with financial loss of $12,000.

SETZER — In loving memory of our son and brother, Donald W. Setzer, age 17, of R.D. 1, East Stroudsburg, who passed away May 14, 5 years ago today.
A precious one from us has gone.
A voice we loved is still.
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.
His going left hearts filled with pain.
But though he is gone from amongst us,
In our hearts he will always remain.

Taurus

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)

— With little planetary help, your day will require considerable thinking, reviewing, then deliberate action and follow-through tactics for full success.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)

— Conditions not pleasing in all areas? Look over the whole picture and you will see that there are more benefits than losses to count, and more to gain than to lose.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)

— Take time for careful reasoning. Don't make abrupt assertions or contradictions.
The prudent, politic way is your best recipe for a successful day.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)

— You may have a tendency now toward discontent, irritability with persons who do not understand you. Recognize this possibility and determine to control such feelings.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)

— There's more than one way to lick a difficultly and catch the prize. You are adept at sensing a need for, and being able to switch quickly to, an alternate course. Be ready!August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — You should have little opposition now unless you look for it — which you could do witlessly. Sow the seeds of good will and keep your counsel discreetly, and you should have a good day.September 24 to October 23 routine matters — especially those requiring accuracy, con-

ABOUT
U.S. SAVINGS BONDS

By SAM SHULSKY

"nest egg" medium is U. S.
Savings Bonds.You can get at the money in a moment; they grow at the rate of 5 percent, plus 1/2 of 1 percent at maturity; they are 100 percent backed by the U. S. Government, AND the accumulation of interest doesn't cost you a penny in Federal income tax until such time as you cash in the E Bonds. (U. S. Savings Bonds are exempt from state and local income and personal property taxes.)Q. Hasn't the time run out for some of the older E Bonds?A. No. All outstanding E and H Savings Bonds are still earning interest. The Treasury recently announced a third 10-year extension for E
Bonds issued from May 1941 through April 1952, a second 10-year extension for E Bonds issued from May 1952 through January 1957, and a second 10-year extension for H Bonds issued from June 1952 through January 1957.
Incidentally, Freedom Shares—sold in combination with E Bonds from May 1967 through June 1970—have been granted a 10-year extension, so they, too, will continue to earn interest.Q. Should I cash in my old E Bonds and buy new ones paying the higher rate?A. No. The Treasury Department has advised against this procedure. All outstanding Savings Bonds—regardless of age—have had their yields improved so that they, too, benefit from the "bonus" rate. Further, if you redeemed your older Bonds, you'd be subject to income tax on the accrued interest, and could actually suffer a setback.Sam Shulsky

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune.
Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
